

Disclaimer for Emails

Any information provided by Neurodiversetalk, LLC (“Company”, “we”, “us”, or “our”) through email is not intended to create and does not constitute a professional relationship between you and us and does not create any doctor-patient or any other professional relationship. The information provided in any of our communications is not a substitute for a medical diagnosis, advice, or treatment, or other professional healthcare. If you have or suspect you may have a medical or psychological problem, you should consult your medical doctor or psychologist or appropriate healthcare provider.

Email communications with us should never be used to communicate protected health information, nor to comply with HIPAA. If you do share any protected health information through email, you do so at your own risk.

If you think you have a medical emergency, call 911 immediately. Never disregard or delay medical advice received from your licensed healthcare provider based on information provided in our communications. Always consult your physician, psychologist, or licensed healthcare provider before seeking any new treatment, or before you alter, suspend, or initiate any change in your medical or psychological treatment, medication or herbal supplement, routine, or procedure.

If you are in crisis, reach out for help to a crisis help line. A list of crisis help lines and service providers can be found online, or contact any of the organizations listed below: National Suicide Hotline 800-273-TALK (800-273- 8255); National Domestic Violence Hotline 800-799-SAFE (800-799-7233); National Child Abuse Hotline 800-4-A-CHILD (800-422-4453). While we provide online services, we do not have a 24-hour hotline for medical or psychological emergencies; nor do we handle requests in crisis situations, such as if you are feeling suicidal or in need of immediate assistance due to emotional crisis. If you are in crisis, contact one of the above organizations or another resource of your choice. If you need help finding mental health services and support in your community, contact an appropriate organization, such as for example: National Mental Health Association Information Center: nmha.org.